THE E-LEARNING COURSES FOR STAKHOLDERS IN THE DANUBE REGION

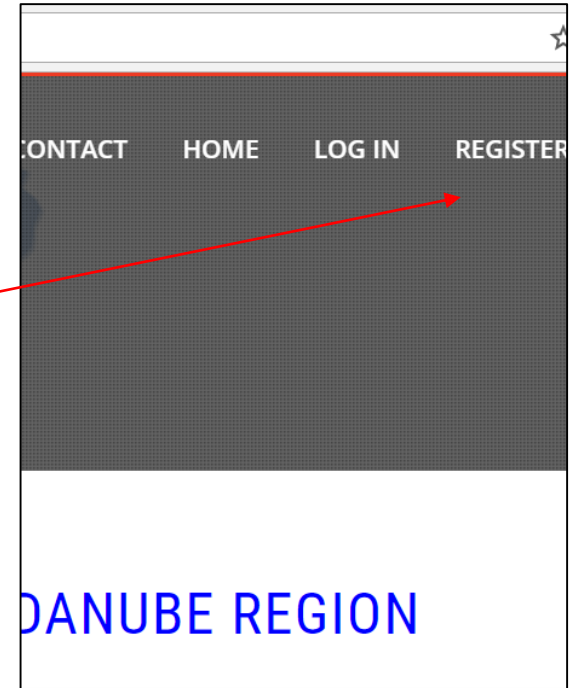

These e-learning courses are designed to support everyone interested in own capacity development regarding better coordination of young people education toward the current and future needs of businesses and regional economic development. The e-learning courses do not pretend to provide stakeholders with one solution that fits for all countries in the Danube region. Quite the contrary: The tools (e-learning courses) will show best practices linking education to employment in higher education in the Danube region. By pointing out successful linkages between higher educational offers and the business sector, stakeholders will be stimulated to look for own solutions and find out what legislative and institutional bottlenecks there are at national and regional level. By exchanging best practices, participating partners and stakeholders will learn from each other and move forward into closer linking education to employment in their home areas.

Enhancing professional training (train the trainers) in companies

The screenshot shows a website header with the Interreg Danube Transnational Programme logo and the text 'EDU-LAB - NEW DANUBIAN GOVERNANCE IN LABOUR MARKET RELEVANCE OF HIGHER EDUCATION'. Navigation links for 'CONTACT', 'HOME', and 'LOG OUT' are visible. The main title 'ENHANCING PROFESSIONAL TRAINING (TRAIN THE TRAINERS) IN COMPANIES' is centered over a map of the Danube region. A breadcrumb trail reads 'Home > Enhancing professional training (train the trainers) in companies'. Below the map, two course titles are listed: 'COURSE 1: Training of trainers competency model' and 'COURSE 2: Trainers` e-skills, management and change management skills'. At the bottom, a request to evaluate the course is followed by a red link labeled 'here'.
